5 HOLDUPS, 8 ROBBERIES, IN WEEK-END CRIME

IDEAL HOTEL HELD UP BY A LONE BANDIT

WILLIAM ARO, SHOT IN HAND
DURING ARREST, IDENTIFIED
AS HOLDUP MAN

BANDIT LINED UP 15 PEOPLE
AGAINST WALL AND TOOK CHANGE FROM TILL

Six persons of the 15 who were lined up against the wall by a lone bandit who entered the Ideal Hotel last night about 10:05 o'clock and escaped with $6.50 in change from the till after commanding them all to "raise your hands or I'll plug you all," have identified William Aro, shot by C. B. Jacobson, special N. P. officer, in the hand when he resisted arrest, as the masked bandit who carried out the holdup.

The holdup at the Ideal Hotel last night culminated a series of eight robberies, and five holdups which have taken place in and around Brainerd in the last three days.

At 10:05 o'clock last night a man entered the Ideal Hotel. His face was covered with a blue handkerchief and he wore a light felt hat. The 15 people in the lobby were quickly and suddenly lined up against the wall with the words, "Raise your hands or I'll plug you all." The bandit then with his hand in his coat pocket and pointing to the people, ordered Alice Peterson, cashier, to "Hand over the money and hand it over quick." The girl took out the change in the till which amounted to $6.50, and handed it over to the bandit, who made his escape. She stated that she was sure that the man had a gun in his pocket because a heavy object sagged in his pocket when he took the money.

The following have identified William Aro as the man who held up the hotel last night: John Lengas, Jr., Carl N. St. Onge, St. Cloud; Chancey Wheeler, clerk at the Ideal Hotel; Charles Holsted, William Swanberg and Mrs. Florence Peterson, all of the Ideal Hotel, according to police information.

The search for the bandit was taken part in by every police officer in the city and the county sheriff's forces.

C. B. Jacobson, N. P. special officer, was called over to the Ideal Hotel just after the holdup, where he found other police officers who were also called.

Harry and Ernest Butler, proprietors of the Ransford Hotel, were witnesses of the holdup from the outside. They had just put away their car in the garage and were passing the hotel on the street when they witnessed the holdup. Running to their own hotel, they notified the police who rushed over immediately, just a few minutes after the man had made his escape.

"There was an extra freight train going to Duluth about that time," said C. B. Jacobson, "so I figured that the bandit might attempt to make a getaway on that train. We went two miles east of the city, where the train was pulled in and made an inspection of the cars. He was not there. We came back to the city and searched among the tie piles. Captain Charles Varner was ahead of me and after searching the pile of ties he went back down town. I went over the tracks to the oil tanks but couldn't find him there and started back again. I saw him sneaking over the tracks at the Second Street North crossing. From description given me, I recognized him at once as the man who held up the hotel. I told him to stop. He started to run and I told him to stop again. He refused to do so and I told him the third time that if he didn't stop I would shoot him. On that he turned around, made a reach for his hip pocket, I aimed at his hand and fired, the bullet going through his left hand. I then took him to the police station where he put up a fight with Officer Graff and we called Dr. Hawkinson."

William Aro was taken to the hospital this morning. So far he has refused to make a statement but six witnesses have positively identified him as the lone bandit who held up the Ideal Hotel last night.

On his arrest, Aro threatened Officer Jacobson with the words: "If I get 10 years for this, I'll get you when I get out."

William Aro was found guilty last

AMERICA OF FUTURE TO HAVE A NEW RACE

Milwaukee, Oct. 18.—(UP)—America of the future will have a new race—men of broad low forehead, square chin, cut nose and lips and great will power and intelligence.

This was the declaration of Dr. Annie Besant, international president of the Theosophical society and guardian of Krish Namurti, in an address here.

"Krish Namurti, as the vehicle on earth of the latest divine master of the Himalayas, will be the sixth of the messiahs who have come to improve humanity," Dr. Besant declared.

Krish Namurti himself did not visit Milwaukee with Mrs. Besant on account of illness.

DIVERSION OF MEDICINAL WHISKY SERIOUS

GREATEST PROBLEM NOW CONFRONTING DRY ENFORCEMENT SERVICE

PROGRESS IN ENFORCEMENT IS RECORDED BY GEN. LINCOLN C. ANDREWS

Minneapolis, Oct. 18.—(UP)—The diversion of medicinal whisky to illegal uses is the greatest problem now confronting the prohibition enforcement service, General Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, told the Minnesota prohibition convention here.

Success on all other fronts of the prohibition enforcement battle was claimed by General Andrews. He said smuggling has been checked by the coast guard and Great Britain's co-operation; illegal beer manufacture has been shelved as a solved question; diversion of industrial alcohol is being stopped and the sacramental wine problem conquered.

General Andrews admitted the enforcement program was "behind schedule," which, he said, was due to failure of congress to enact the necessary legislation. He said he was "jolted along" until the last day of the session into believing the legislation would be acted on.

This, General Andrews said, is why the government has not made better progress in preventing the diversion of medicinal whisky to illegal uses.

Andrews said the enforcement program in the future would concentrate on getting local police officers to "do their part" and develop the same efficiency in getting the petty offenders as the government has developed in getting the big violators.

In a delirious condition last night and weakened from loss of blood, Aro muttered something about a man whom he referred to as "Texas" of Chicago.

The police are scouring the city and will round up all suspicious looking characters for questioning on the numerous robberies and also the other holdups reported during Brainerd's most terrible week-end of robberies and holdups.

The list of robberies in Brainerd as reported to Chief Templeton Saturday night and early Sunday morning, follows:

The garage of S. A. Saxrud, 809 South Seventh Street, was broken into and tools were stolen.

The garage of Theodore Nesheim, 815 South Seventh Street, deputy sheriff, was broken into and the rear license plate of the car was stolen.

MAGNETIC QUEEN OF RUMANIA IS TO BE WELCOMED

TO DINE TOMORROW WITH THE PRESIDENT AND MRS.
COOLIDGE

"COMMERCIAL ATMOSPHERE" IS CLAIMED TO SURROUND
QUEEN MARIE

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 18.—Rumania's magnetic queen, Marie, will be received here tonight with honors befitting her rank and her place as two-day guest of the government.

A war strength squadron of cavalry will turn out to escort her from the union station and tomorrow she will break bread with the president and Mrs. Coolidge.

But the hospitality accorded her will be somewhat strained, even though it observes all the proprieties and niceties. For it is an open secret here today that many government authorities are displeased with the "commercial" atmosphere thrown around the queen's tour.

Publicly, they do not violate the rules of hospitality by commenting. But privately they scarcely veil their displeasure at the money making elements of the trip, the trumpeting that heralds Marie's coming, and the almost press agency with which she is being "put across."

With protests from publishers against the Marie publicity understood to be already on file with or en route to the state department, the government found its situation unenviable.

It was pointed out international courtesy required the queen be received with all the honor and dignity that the national capital affords. But the fact that the queen was turning the venture to her own advantage, pecuniary and otherwise, by making a newspaper syndicate her mouthpiece, was not lost upon government men. Nor had they seen with pleasure advertisements exploiting her coming presence at Philadelphia's Sesqui-centennial. Yet again, they did not overlook the persistent, though denied, reports that the queen's journey would be turned into gold through her appearance in movies or by writing scenarios. And they were not unaware that she had lent her name in the past to cosmetics advertisements.

An ambitious program for the queen's reception here has been made. It runs thus:

6 P. M. today—Secretary of State Kellogg and others will welcome her at the union station.

6:30 P. M.—Queen escorted by cavalry goes to Rumanian legation.

8 P. M.—Her majesty dines privately at the legation.

Tuesday—Visits the tomb of the unknown soldier, greeted by military salutes; goes to Mount Vernon, pays a courtesy call on the president and receives his return call; dines at the White House.

Wednesday—Goes to Annapolis and Baltimore and starts being a "private individual" as far as the government is concerned.

Washington, for the most part, will get only fleeting glimpses of the queen. Society will be unable to "crash" the White House dinner tomorrow. But this does not prevent society from pondering over the silent man of the Vermont hills and the magnetic "mother-in-law of the Balkans" breaking bread.

AUTO MISHAPS IN MILWAUKEE

WEEK-END FINDS TWO WOMEN,
MAN AND BOY KILLED

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Two women, a man and a boy were killed in automobile accidents in and near Milwaukee over the week-end. Mrs. Marie Werner, 50, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ernestine Werner, 77, were killed when the automobile in which they were riding and which was driven by Herman C. Werner, husband and son respectively, was struck by a North-western road train here last night. The driver suffered a fractured skull but is expected to recover.

Frank Sotasz, eight years old, was killed at Racine, when he coasted from a driveway and was struck by an automobile. His neck was broken.

John Wawzonkowski, 34, died soon after being taken to a hospital, following injuries suffered when his automobile plunged into a ditch and turned over.

Twenty-three other persons were injured in numerous other accidents that were reported to police.

EUGENE V. DEBS IS SOMEWHAT IMPROVED

Elmhurst, Ill., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Eugene V. Debs, internationally known socialist leader, suffering from a nervous breakdown in a local hospital, was somewhat improved today, according to a hospital announcement.

Debs, who has been at the hospital for several days, has continually shown improvement and his early recovery is anticipated.

She talked in perfect English, speaking rapidly. Her manner was gracious. Queen Marie made friends with the reporters.

With the formalities aboard ship concluded, the queen boarded a cutter and was brought to the Battery. Shipping saluted and as Governor's Island was passed a 21 gun salute boomed forth.

Fifteen minutes before the queen reached the Battery, the rain ceased except for a light mist.

She was smiling and gay, as carrying a big bouquet, she stepped into the open car and started up Broadway toward the city hall.

Greeting her at the Battery and on lower Broadway was a crowd of several thousands.

Then behind a police band and mounted escort, the car bearing her majesty swung up lower Broadway to be greeted by an ever increasing volume of noise.

It was 12:15 o'clock when the queen reached city hall. She left her bouquet in the car and walked up the steps to receive a greeting from Mayor Jimmie Walker.

The rain had ceased but it was cold and dreary. The official reception in the aldermanic chamber was then begun.

At 12:45 the ceremonies at the city hall were concluded and the queen and party started for the Pennsylvania station to entrain for Washington, there to meet President Coolidge.

ST. CLOUD MAN SUCCUMBS TO INTERNAL INJURIES

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 18.—(UP)—John Pined of St. Cloud, owner of an oil company, died today of internal injuries suffered Saturday while he was driving the same truck in which his partner was found dead, June 26. Pined was on his way to Paynesville where a state highway department road crew had run out of oil. He turned to one side to give room to another automobile and the truck overturned. Three of his ribs were fractured and his lung was punctured.

Frank Echert of St. Cloud, his partner, was driving the same truck on a night trip. He was found dead beside the overturned truck.

MRS. F. S. HALL TO TESTIFY IN HER OWN DEFENSE

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall will testify in her own defense when the Hall-Mills trial starts November 3. In an interview with newspapermen she predicted the verdict of the jury would be a rebuke to Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson.

"I have nothing to conceal," she said. "I shall certainly testify when the trial starts next month. Then Senator Simpson will have to change his tactics, deal with facts before a jury and stop his campaign of suspicion and insinuations in the newspapers."

SAYS PROSPEROUS YEAR IN STEEL NOW INDICATED

Washington, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Charles M. Schwab, president of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, today told President Coolidge records would be broken in steel production this year.

Schwab predicted an output of 50,000,000 tons for the year ending December 31, 1926.

"The steel industry is moving ahead at a phenomenal rate," Schwab said after seeing the president. "A few years ago they laughed at me when I forecast a yearly output of 20,000,000 tons. There is nothing to stop a constant increase in the yearly production of steel."

TESTIMONY OF GIRL STENOGRAPHER NOW TO BE HEARD

SECOND WEEK OF INVESTIGATION OF CHARGES OF CORRUPTION

INDIANA POLITICS NOW UNDER SEARCHLIGHT

By GERALD P. OVERTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—Testimony of Mildred Meade, pretty 23-year-old former stenographer of D. C. Stephenson, was to be heard by the Marion county grand jury today as it began the second week of its investigation of charges of corruption in Indiana politics.

The girl, missing for more than a week, reappeared at her home here suddenly last night. She said she had been on a vacation and did not know that authorities were hunting her as a witness in the grand jury inquiry.

After being held incommunicado in the county jail for several hours, she was released on bond awaiting her appearance before the grand jury at today's session.

Through quizzing Stephenson's former stenographer, Prosecutor Remy hopes to trace letters and checks the deposed Klan dragon is thought to have hidden before he was taken to the state prison at Michigan City to start serving a life sentence for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer of Indianapolis.

Believing that certain influences had been trying to keep Miss Meade out of the way during the grand jury investigation, Prosecutor Remy said the circumstances of her disappearance would be looked into.

Thomas Adams, Vincennes editor was to testify before the grand jury again today.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 18.—A safety deposit box, which it was believed, might contain missing documents of D. C. Stephenson, former Klan dragon, was taken today before the Marion county grand jury in its inquiry into Stephenson's political activities.

Mildred Meade, former stenographer for Stephenson, led Prosecutor William H. Remy to the box in the Indiana National Bank here.

The girl, who reappeared last night after being missing for more than a week, was called before the grand jury as its first witness today.

A few minutes later Prosecutor Remy and Miss Meade emerged from the grand jury room and went to the bank where she pointed out the box.

London bar silver was quoted at 24 3-16 pence, off 13-16 pence, while Mexican dollars were off 5½ cents at 35½.

SEN. JAMES A. REED IS TO PROBE FOR MORE DIRT IN MESS

SO EMPOWERED AS CHAIRMAN OF SENATE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING CAMPAIGN

IMPOSING LIST OF WITNESSES TO REVEAL DETAILS OF SENATORIAL PRIMARY

Chicago, Oct. 18.—When the senate campaign funds committee reopened its records of the Illinois primary today, they showed contributions totalling $1,028,635.47, the amount turned up by the committee's first session here last August.

Colonel Frank L. Smith, the republican senatorial nominee, spent $687,282.11, more than $200,000 of which was given him by public utilities interests.

Senator William B. McKinley, who was defeated by Smith in the primary, spent $357,116.72, most of which came out of his own pocket.

George Brennan, democratic senatorial nominee, spent $20,841.42 of which $15,000 came from public utilities.

The balance of the total was spent by two Cook county organizations for local candidates, by the Anti-Saloon League for legislative candidates and by the Better Government Association for its city and county campaign.

By EDWARD C. DERR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Senator James A. Reed today began digging for more dirt in the slush pile of Illinois politics.

Under powers delegated to him as chairman of the senate committee investigating campaign funds, the Missourian reopened his inquiry with an imposing list of witnesses waiting to reveal details of how this state's senatorial primary was won and lost.

Among these were men and women prominent in the worlds of big business and reform as well as politics.

Reed indicated that after cleaning up the tag ends of the public utilities slush scandal which his committee exposed at its hearing here last August, he would inquire into political activities of the Anti-Saloon League. This promised to develop the real sensation of the present investigation.

Although the Anti-Saloon League played a minor role in the senatorial primary in April, it is now the storm center of the republican campaign.

Through its superintendent, Geo. B. Safford, the league has endorsed Colonel Frank L. Smith, the man who defeated Senator William B. McKinley for the republican nomination with the aid of $206,235 contributed to his campaign by Samuel Insull and other millionaire owners of public utilities.

Simultaneously the league demanded that Hugh S. Magill, the independent republican, who entered the lists against Smith, when it was shown that the latter had taken so much money from the utilities magnates, withdraw in Smith's favor. The league admitted that Magill was as dry as Smith, but insisted that two drys might split the vote and leave the way open for George Brennan, the democratic wet, to enter the senate.

If Reed can clinch his case against Smith, proving that the nominee is guilty of unethical conduct in connection with the slush receipts, he can then point an accusing finger at Dr. Safford and Wayne B. Wheeler for backing a "moral crook."

Those close to the committee chairman believe that these post primary developments prompted him to reopen the inquiry and that he will go into them to the full extent of his wide powers.

Other angles which Reed was scheduled to investigate included Colonel Smith's threat to show that a slush fund of from $300,000 to $400,000 was placed at the disposal of Magill, presumably by Julius

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Two women, a man and a boy were killed in automobile accidents in and near Milwaukee over the week-end. Mrs. Marie Werner, 50, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ernestine Werner, 77, were killed when the automobile in which they were riding and which was driven by Herman C. Werner, husband and son respectively, was struck by a North-western road train here last night. The driver suffered a fractured skull but is expected to recover.

Frank Sotasz, eight years old, was killed at Racine, when he coasted from a driveway and was struck by an automobile. His neck was broken.

MRS. F. S. HALL
TO TESTIFY IN HER OWN DEFENSE

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall will testify in her own defense when the Hall-Mills trial starts November 3. In an interview with newspapermen she predicted the verdict of the jury would be a rebuke to Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson.

"I have nothing to conceal," she said. "I shall certainly testify when the trial starts next month. Then Senator Simpson will have to change his tactics, deal with facts before a jury and stop his campaign of suspicion and insinuations in the newspapers."

Then behind a police band and mounted escort, the car bearing her majesty swung up lower Broadway to be greeted by an ever increasing volume of noise.

It was 12:15 o'clock when the queen reached city hall. She left her bouquet in the car and walked up the steps to receive a greeting from Mayor Jimmie Walker.

The rain had ceased but it was cold and dreary. The official reception in the aldermanic chamber was then begun.

At 12:45 the ceremonies at the city hall were concluded and the queen and party started for the Pennsylvania station to entrain for Washington, there to meet President Coolidge.

EUGENE V. DEBS IS SOMEWHAT IMPROVED

Elmhurst, Ill., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Eugene V. Debs, internationally known socialist leader, suffering from a nervous breakdown in a local hospital, was somewhat improved today, according to a hospital announcement.

Debs, who has been at the hospital for several days, has continually shown improvement and his early recovery is anticipated.

men and women in the square of the "C" deck of the Leviathan, Queen Marie told how she ate buckwheat cakes always "one at a time;" denied she spent fabulous sums for clothes and opined that her children were too young to think of marriage.

She talked in perfect English, speaking rapidly. Her manner was gracious. Queen Marie made friends with the reporters.

With the formalities aboard ship concluded, the queen boarded a cutter and was brought to the Battery. Shipping saluted and as Governor's Island was passed a 21 gun salute boomed forth.

Fifteen minutes before the queen reached the Battery, the rain ceased except for a light mist.

She was smiling and gay, as carrying a big bouquet, she stepped into the open car and started up Broadway toward the city hall.

Greeting her at the Battery and on lower Broadway was a crowd of several thousands.

Then behind a police band and mounted escort, the car bearing her majesty swung up lower Broadway to be greeted by an ever increasing volume of noise.

It was 12:15 o'clock when the queen reached city hall. She left her bouquet in the car and walked up the steps to receive a greeting from Mayor Jimmie Walker.

Persons on shore saw one of them fall from a rowboat while casting. A few seconds later, his companion capsize the boat in an attempt to rescue and both drowned. The bodies were recovered several hours later.

SAYS PROSPEROUS YEAR IN STEEL NOW INDICATED

Washington, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Charles M. Schwab, president of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, today told President Coolidge records would be broken in steel production this year.

Schwab predicted an output of 50,000,000 tons for the year ending December 31, 1926.

"The steel industry is moving ahead at a phenomenal rate," Schwab said after seeing the president. "A few years ago they laughed at me when I forecast a yearly output of 20,000,000 tons. There is nothing to stop a constant increase in the yearly production of steel."

TESTIMONY OF GIRL STENOGRAPHER NOW TO BE HEARD

SECOND WEEK OF INVESTIGATION OF CHARGES OF CORRUPTION

INDIANA POLITICS NOW UNDER SEARCHLIGHT PROBE

By GERALD P. OVERTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—Testimony of Mildred Meade, pretty 23-year-old former stenographer of D. C. Stephenson, was to be heard by the Marion county grand jury today as it began the second week of its investigation of charges of corruption in Indiana politics.

The girl, missing for more than a week, reappeared at her home here suddenly last night. She said she had been on a vacation and did not know that authorities were hunting her as a witness in the grand jury inquiry.

After being held incommunicado in the county jail for several hours, she was released on bond awaiting her appearance before the grand jury at today's session.

Through quizzing Stephenson's former stenographer, Prosecutor Remy hopes to trace letters and checks the deposed Klan dragon is thought to have hidden before he was taken to the state prison at Michigan City to start serving a life sentence for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholzer of Indianapolis.

Believing that certain influences had been trying to keep Miss Meade out of the way during the grand jury investigation, Prosecutor Remy said the circumstances of her disappearance would be looked into.

Thomas Adams, Vincennes editor was to testify before the grand jury again today.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 18.—A safety deposit box, which it was believed, might contain missing documents of D. C. Stephenson, former Klan dragon, was taken today before the Marion county grand jury in its inquiry into Stephenson's political activities.

Mildred Meade, former stenographer for Stephenson, led Prosecutor William H. Remy to the box in the Indiana National Bank here.

The girl, who reappeared last night after being missing for more than a week, was called before the grand jury as its first witness today.

A few minutes later Prosecutor Remy and Miss Meade emerged from the grand jury room and went to the bank where she pointed out the box.

SEN. JAMES A. REED IS TO PROBE FOR MORE DIRT IN MESS

SO EMPOWERED AS CHAIRMAN OF SENATE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING CAMPAIGN

IMPOSING LIST OF WITNESSES TO REVEAL DETAILS OF SENATORIAL PRIMARY

Chicago, Oct. 18.—When the senate campaign funds committee reopened its records of the Illinois primary today, they showed contributions totalling $1,028,635.47, the amount turned up by the committee's first session here last August.

Colonel Frank L. Smith, the republican senatorial nominee, spent $687,282.11, more than $200,000 of which was given him by public utilities interests.

Senator William B. McKinley, who was defeated by Smith in the primary, spent $357,116.72, most of which came out of his own pocket.

George Brennan, democratic senatorial nominee, spent $20,841.42 of which $15,000 came from public utilities.

The balance of the total was spent by two Cook county organizations for local candidates, by the Anti-Saloon League for legislative candidates and by the Better Government Association for its city and county campaign.

By EDWARD C. DERR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Senator James A. Reed today began digging for more dirt in the slush pile of Illinois politics.

Under powers delegated to him as chairman of the senate committee investigating campaign funds, the Missourian reopened his inquiry with an imposing list of witnesses waiting to reveal details of how this state's senatorial primary was won and lost.

Among these were men and women prominent in the worlds of big business and reform as well as politics. Reed indicated that after cleaning up the tag ends of the public utilities slush scandal which his committee exposed at its hearing here last August, he would inquire into political activities of the Anti-Saloon League. This promised to develop the real sensation of the present investigation.

Although the Anti-Saloon League played a minor role in the senatorial primary in April, it is now the storm center of the republican campaign.

Through its superintendent, Geo. B. Safford, the league has endorsed Colonel Frank L. Smith, the man who defeated Senator William B. McKinley for the republican nomination with the aid of $206,235 contributed to his campaign by Samuel Insull and other millionaire owners of public utilities.

Simultaneously the league demanded that Hugh S. Magill, the independent republican, who entered the lists against Smith, when it was shown that the latter had taken so much money from the utilities magnates, withdraw in Smith's favor. The league admitted that Magill was as dry as Smith, but insisted that two dries might split the vote and leave the way open for George Brennan, the democratic wet, to enter the senate.

If Reed can clinch his case against Smith, proving that the nominee is guilty of unethical conduct in connection with the slush receipts, he can then point an accusing finger at Dr. Safford and Wayne B. Wheeler for backing a "moral crook."

Those close to the committee chairman believe that these post primary developments prompted him to reopen the inquiry and that he will go into them to the full extent of his wide powers.

Other angles which Reed was scheduled to investigate included Colonel Smith's threat to show that a slush fund of from $300,000 to $400,000 was placed at the disposal of Magill, presumably by Julius

CITY JOINED IN CELEBRATIONS

Streets Saturday Night Thronged With People to Witness Parades

TWO PARADES

Salvation Army and Tall Cedars of Lebanon Hold Ceremonies

With colors flying, banners streaming, bands playing all the time, gaudy uniforms, brightly lighted torches, fireworks, Brainerd the busiest convention city in the state Saturday night presented a colorful scene of happy merry makers amid a galaxy of color.

Brainerd's main streets were jammed with people from all parts of the city who took a hearty interest in the convention parades.

Throngs of people blocked the street corners where the processions marched.

There were two different parades. There was the Salvation Army Young People's parade through the streets, headed by the famed Young People's band from Minneapolis which wound up on Laurel street just west of Sixth where an open air meeting was held followed by a program at the U. C. T. Auditorium.

There was the Tall Cedars of Lebanon parade a few minutes later. The lodgements were in a happy mood. The parade was headed by the Ladies band of Brainerd, special drum corps and delegations in full dress regalia. Ceremonies were held in the Iron Exchange hall following the parade.

CITY JOINED IN CELEBRATIONS

Streets Saturday Night Thronged With People to Witness Parades

TWO PARADES

Salvation Army and Tall Cedars of Lebanon Hold Ceremonies

With colors flying, banners streaming, bands playing all the time, gaudy uniforms, brightly lighted torches, fireworks, Brainerd the busiest convention city in the state Saturday night presented a colorful scene of happy merry makers amid a galaxy of color.

Brainerd's main streets were jammed with people from all parts of the city who took a hearty interest in the convention parades.

Thronging of people blocked the street corners where the processions marched.

There were two different parades. There was the Salvation Army Young People's parade through the streets, headed by the famed Young People's band from Minneapolis which wound up on Laurel street just west of Sixth where an open air meeting was held followed by a program at the U. C. T. Auditorium.

There was the Tall Cedars of Lebanon parade a few minutes later. The lodgemen were in a happy mood. The parade was headed by the Ladies band of Brainerd, special drum corps and delegations in full dress regalia. Ceremonies were held in the Iron Exchange hall following the parade.

HEDDA HOYT SAYS--

By HEDDA HOYT WOMEN DEFY FLANNELS

New York, Oct. 18.—(UP)—It's difficult to blush nowadays but the very mention of "red flannels" brings forth a blush which causes vermillion to look at faded pink.

Shivers may come and shivers may go but the flannel undergarment remains a hideous relic of bygone days. The warmth of these old-timers is replaced strategically by various subtle means. Milady forsakes her chiffon step-ins and steps into bloomers of silk crepe or satin. Perhaps she adds to her shivering torso a vest of silk jersey and a costume slip of satin or heavy crepe de chene. She may even go so far as to grease stocking rolling and to cover her knees with silk knickers fastidiously matching her frock. She might also add an ostrich rosette to her garter.

Few indeed, are the women who accept styles piece-meal wearing half-masted flannels of knee-length with low necks and without sleeves. These few believe in secretly keeping the world from disillusionment. Venus de Milo would have looked a mess in a union suit.

Women refuse to be unbecomingly even in the undergarments and it seems that they are just about as healthy as when they disguised themselves with union-suits and layers of flannel petticoats.

Sports satin is a material that is well liked for costume slips for reason of its warmth and because it falls straight hewing to the lines of the fashionable slender figure.

Bloomers or knickers of silk are preferred during cold weather to step-ins and envelope chemises. If one keeps the body warm the extremities seem to take care of themselves.

For sufferers of chilly ankles we suggest the silk ankle-gaiters which come in flesh colors and can be worn under the stocking without being detected.

Corset sand girdles do much toward keeping one warm and many wear boneless models during cold weather for warmth only.

The long-sleeved and high necked frocks of this season should be ample protection against the cold if they are made of velvet, woolen or jersey materials. One must be careful in these days of scant "undies" to avoid changing from heavy frocks to lighter weights.

CRIME MYSTERY PERPLEXES CHICAGO

16 BANDITS RAIDED TELEPHONE SUPPLY COMPANY BUILDING

Chicago, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Another crime mystery perplexed police today as they endeavored to obtain some clue toward solving a rifling of the Kellogg Switchboard & Supply Co. building early Sunday morning. The building, six stories high and covering an entire block, was raided by 16 bandits, who subdued nine employees, set off six blasts and escaped with loot, the value of which

FARBMAN CONCERT IS REVIEWED

Violinist Held Audience Enthralled With Wizardry of His Bow

SWEET, APPEALING MUSIC

His Accompanist, Miss Engler, Comes in For Honors Too

When the entente cordial is as well established between audience and artist as it was on Sunday afternoon at the Park theatre, there can be only one result—a thoroughly enjoyable time. As Harry Farbmán stood on the stage with some of the committee before he began to practice in the theatre, he turned to one of them and said that he loved to play in this theatre because he had such a vivid memory of a fine audience last year, and after the performance this afternoon he said he hoped Mr. Culbertson would be told of his hope that he might play here again.

The biggest proof of an artist's ability is the way he holds his listeners. Mr. Farbmán had his audience so enthralled with the wizardry of his bow that they sat there tense from his opening sonata through his second encore—an exquisite rendering of "Old Black Joe," so sweet and appealing that all the pathos of the old melody was made very real.

The two first groups—Sonata in E major and the Concerto in D minor—were the two most ambitious of the program, and gave him ample opportunity to demonstrate his remarkable handling of the violin, for joy and sorrow appeared before the audience. The first movement in the concerto had most unexpected snatches of piano accompaniment while the violin came in with almost harsh notes in the minor key, shifting to notes of exquisite loveliness in the second movement, a more lively air in the third, and a marvelous volume of sound in the finale, where one could fancy, by closing his eyes that two violins were producing the sweet sounds. After that concerto the applause was a very sure indication of the response of his listeners.

The third group was composed of lighter numbers of varying types. Here he ran the gamut of all the emotions; there was the life and fervor in the Spanish dance; the sweetness of mother love in the Hebrew melody, where the music almost made one see the drooping head of the drowsy child; unexpected flourishes in the caprice in A minor; the affection and promises of the lover in Liebeslied; and the joy of life and a vast variety of sound in the Russian carnival, which was so well remembered from last year that there was involuntary applause when Mr. Farbmán announced it. Words fail to do justice to the interesting variety in this selection for there was so much life and movement, the trilling of birds, and the feeling that more than one instrument was on the stage.

Miss Engler comes in for her fair share of the honors, for she played difficult accompaniments with an ease and surety that added that to the afternoon that made it complete.

The attendance at the concert was a sure indication of the interest of Brainerd and surrounding towns in really good music. A large number of people drove down from the range towns, and the club has some dozen regular members from out of town. It is very gratifying to Brainerd people to hear from Miss Engler that Brainerd is being much talked about in towns where she plays as a very musical city. She and Mr. Farbmán came here direct from Nebraska, and heard favorable comments along the way.

Black Leads in Colors for Fall and Winter

Following the recent great vogue for black in America, Paris has included considerable black in her new collections for fall and winter. That this color seems to recur with insistent frequency is due mostly to its adaptability for clothes designed for any hour of the day; compared with the number of gowns for daytime shown in the new rich red shades, those shown in black are negligible; compared with the gowns for evening in the pale pink, yellows and grays, the black gowns seem few in number. But the reds for afternoon do not appear among the evening gowns nor the pastel shades among the afternoon gowns; whereas black finds its way into both collections, leading the casual observer to state that black is first in favor.

Shades of dulled red, new this season, are exquisite, particularly when found in radiant velvet. "Virginia creeper" Jean Patou names one lovely shade, and adds the explanatory phrase, "Autumn leaves burned red by an Indian summer sun." There are other reds with considerable brown in them—port, burgundy, dregs of wine, plum—shading off to the reds with blue, beet red and the lilac tones, which finally deepen into purple shades such as grape, prune and raisin. Patou has taken a rich prune shade and called it "Patou purple."

Highway traffic calls for fewer of the headlong and more of the long-headed.—Wall Street Journal.

NOW WITH O'BRIENS

P. J. Oberst Now Engaged in Charge of Shoe Department of O'Brien Mercantile Co.

P. J. Oberst, for 15 years in business in Brainerd as a shoe merchant, has discontinued his own store and accepted a position with the O'Brien Mercantile Co., store in charge of their shoe department.

Mr. Oberst has studied the shoe business in all its phases and early recognized that a knowledge of the foot and the diseases and mishaps which sometimes afflicted this member was an invaluable aid in proper fitting of shoes. He has studied the fitting of shoes in scientific manner, and took an extended course at the Scholl Orthopedic School of Chicago, graduating with honors in a large class.

Mr. Oberst was originally in business at Henderson and after his 15 years of business in the Citizens State bank block built up a large clientele. He will be pleased to see his old customers at his department at the O'Brien Mercantile Co. store, where one of the largest and most comprehensive stocks of shoes for men, women and children is carried.

Utilizing Sewer Gas

An Australian engineer has put sewer gas to work driving an engine. He built a 16-horsepower plant and collected the gas which emanated from the septic tanks of his own town of Parramatta to use as fuel for his engine. The supply turned out to be so sure that the plant can be left to run for days at a time without any attention. In this particular installation the work is merely to pump out the sewage itself; but nevertheless it saved the cost of the coal.

BUSY DIGGING INTO SLUSH PILE OF ILLINOIS POLITICS

Rosenwald, multimillionaire mail order executive, and other civic leaders and the motives behind the contributions to Smith's funds by Clement Studebaker, Indiana's public utilities power.

Studebaker was one of the principal witnesses subpoenaed for today. Others included Safford of the Anti-Saloon League, James Simpson, president of Marshall Field & Co., who gave money in the local campaign; Mrs. James M. Morrison, wealthy hotel owner, who backed Senator McKinley in the primary; Rev. Elmer Williams, late of the Better Government Association, and Percy B. Coffin, state public administrator for Cook county (Chicago).

Another important matter to be decided at the present hearing was whether Reed would investigate the political Klan scandal that was developed in Indiana. It was believed that if those who are promoting the Indiana investigation would show the chairman enough evidence of a plot by the Ku Klux Klan to rule the state, he would consent to look into the Indiana situation.

Lame on Moire Base Is Chic for Evening Wear

Lame on a moire base is one of the novelties for evening. Very often a design in stripes or flowers is superimposed upon this already beautiful material as it was in a quaint gown made by Redfern. Pink moire on a gold lame base has wide stripes in varying shades of pink woven through it. The stripes are utilized to form the lines of the fitted bodice, which come to a deep point at a very low waistline. The skirt is short and straight, with long pendants at each side. A garniture of golden grapes marks the curving line where the skirt joins the pointed bodice. At the back a square train reaching just to the floor is inserted under the pointed bodice line.

Too

When the entente cordial is as well established between audience and artist as it was on Sunday afternoon at the Park theatre, there can be only one result—a thoroughly enjoyable time. As Harry Farberman stood on the stage with some of the committee before he began to practice in the theatre, he turned to one of them and said that he loved to play in this theatre because he had such a vivid memory of a fine audience last year, and after the performance this afternoon he said he hoped Mr. Culbertson would be told of his hope that he might play here again.

The biggest proof of an artist's ability is the way he holds his listeners. Mr. Farberman had his audience so enthralled with the wizardry of his bow that they sat there tense from his opening sonata through his second encore—an exquisite rendering of "Old Black Joe," so sweet and appealing that all the paths of the old melody was made very real.

The two first groups—Sonata in E major and the Concerto in D minor—were the two most ambitious of the program, and gave him ample opportunity to demonstrate his remarkable handling of the violin, for joy and sorrow appeared before the audience. The first movement in the concerto had most unexpected snatches of piano accompaniment while the violin came in with almost harsh notes in the minor key, shifting to notes of exquisite loveliness in the second movement, a more lively air in the third, and a marvelous volume of sound in the finale, where one could fancy, by closing his eyes that two violins were producing the sweet sounds. After that concerto the applause was a very sure indication of the response of his listeners.

The third group was composed of lighter numbers of varying types. Here he ran the gamut of all the emotions; there was the life and fervor in the Spanish dance; the sweetness of mother love in the He-brew melody, where the music almost made one see the drooping head of the drowsy child; unexpected flourishes in the caprice in A minor; the affection and promises of the lover in Liebeslied; and the joy of life and a vast variety of sound in the Russian carnival, which was so well remembered from last year that there was involuntary applause when Mr. Farberman announced it. Words fail to do justice to the interesting variety in this selection for there was so much life and movement, the trilling of birds, and the feeling that more than one instrument was on the stage.

Miss Engler comes in for her fair share of the honors, for she played difficult accompaniments with an ease and surety that added that to the afternoon that made it complete.

The attendance at the concert was a sure indication of the interest of Brainerd and surrounding towns in really good music. A large number of people drove down from the range towns, and the club has some dozen regular members from out of town. It is very gratifying to Brainerd people to hear from Miss Engler that Brainerd is being much talked about in towns where she plays as a very musical city. She and Mr. Farberman came here direct from Nebraska, and heard favorable comments along the way.

Black Leads in Colors for Fall and Winter

Following the recent great vogue for black in America, Paris has included considerable black in her new collections for fall and winter. That this color seems to recur with insistent frequency is due mostly to its adaptability for clothes designed for any hour of the day; compared with the number of gowns for daytime shown in the new rich red shades, those shown in black are negligible; compared with the gowns for evening in the pale pink, yellows and grays, the black gowns seem few in number. But the reds for afternoon do not appear among the evening gowns nor the pastel shades among the afternoon gowns; whereas black finds its way into both collections, leading the casual observer to state that black is first in favor.

Shades of dulled red, new this season, are exquisite, particularly when found in radiant velvet. "Virginia creeper" Jean Patou names one lovely shade, and adds the explanatory phrase, "Autumn leaves burned red by an Indian summer sun." There are other reds with considerable brown in them—port, burgundy, dregs of wine, plum—shading off to the reds with blue, beet red and the lilac tones, which finally deepen into purple shades such as grape, prune and raisin. Patou has taken a rich prune shade and called it "Patou purple."

NOW WITH O'BRIENS

P. J. Oberst Now Engaged in Charge of Shoe Department of O'Brien
Mercantile Co.

P. J. Oberst, for 15 years in business in Brainerd as a shoe merchant, has discontinued his own store and accepted a position with the O'Brien Mercantile Co., store in charge of their shoe department.

Mr. Oberst has studied the shoe business in all its phases and early recognized that a knowledge of the foot and the diseases and mishaps which sometimes afflicted this member was an invaluable aid in proper fitting of shoes. He has studied the fitting of shoes in scientific manner, and took an extended course at the Scholl Orthopedic School of Chicago, graduating with honors in a large class.

Mr. Oberst was originally in business at Henderson and after his 15 years of business in the Citizens State bank block built up a large clientele. He will be pleased to see his old customers at his department at the O'Brien Mercantile Co. store, where one of the largest and most comprehensive stocks of shoes for men, women and children is carried.

Utilizing Sewer Gas

An Australian engineer has put sewer gas to work driving an engine. He built a 16-horsepower plant and collected the gas which emanated from the septic tanks of his own town of Parramatta to use as fuel for his engine. The supply turned out to be so sure that the plant can be left to run for days at a time without any attention. In this particular installation the work is merely to pump out the sewage itself; but nevertheless it saved the cost of the coal.

Rosenwald, multimillionaire mail order executive, and other civic leaders and the motives behind the contributions to Smith's funds by Clement Studebaker, Indiana's public utilities power.

Studebaker was one of the principal witnesses subpoenaed for today. Others included Safford of the Anti-Saloon League, James Simpson, president of Marshall Field & Co., who gave money in the local campaign; Mrs. James M. Morrison, wealthy hotel owner, who backed Senator McKinley in the primary; Rev. Elmer Williams, late of the Better Government Association, and Percy B. Coffin, state public administrator for Cook county (Chicago).

Another important matter to be decided at the present hearing was whether Reed would investigate the political Klan scandal that was developed in Indiana. It was believed that if those who are promoting the Indiana investigation would show the chairman enough evidence of a plot by the Ku Klux Klan to rule the state, he would consent to look into the Indiana situation.

Lame on Moire Base Is

Chic for Evening Wear

Lame on a moire base is one of the novelties for evening. Very often a design in stripes or flowers is superimposed upon this already beautiful material as it was in a quaint gown made by Redfern. Pink moire on a gold lame base has wide stripes in varying shades of pink woven through it. The stripes are utilized to form the lines of the fitted bodice, which come to a deep point at a very low waistline. The skirt is short and straight, with looped pendants at each side. A garniture of golden grapes marks the curving line where the skirt joins the pointed bodice. At the back a square train reaching just to the floor is inserted under the pointed bodice line.

THE VOTE SLACKER IN POLITICS

THE vote slacker's pet alibi is, "Oh, politics is so rotten." But the rottenest thing about politics is the vote slacker. Any citizen of the United States who is entitled to a vote and doesn't use it is cheating himself of direct, personal benefits as much as if he deliberately throws away money which he has toiled to earn. It is easy to say, "Oh, politics is so rotten, I have quit voting." It is harder to take an intelligent interest in a patriotic pride in the welfare of one's country and do one's bit toward electing the best men to office. That requires both intelligence and honest endeavor. Any country will always get the officials it deserves.

To declare politics so rotten that a voter should not associate himself with it, and to assume a self-righteous aloofness concerning this "rotteness," is to at once label one's self not only a shirker, but one blind to his own self-interest. Our boys and girls are being taught—and rightly so—that they are the fortunate citizens of a great and worthy world-power, the constitution of which is called the ablest and greatest of human documents. How can these young people of ours reconcile this with the attitude of the vote slacker who neglects and derides the constitution's chief gift to American citizens? Some one must be lying.

Politics is the science of government. The proper government of a country and of its political subdivisions is a great and ennobling responsibility. Even when men of small caliber are elected to important posts (mainly through the disinterest and preoccupation of the voters, who carp at the results of their own negligence) they sometimes rise to heights greater than themselves. Remarkably few public officials are completely faithless to their undertaking. Such faithlessness is still a headline "story" in the news. And when there is such faithlessness, the blame rests upon that portion of the electorate which, in its greater faithfulness, failed to vote. Such a breach of trust is a direct and tangible loss to the recreant officials, constituency and every member of it.

If one really believes that politics is rotten, the shame is his. Enough of us have not cared enough to keep them unstained. To believe that "politics is rotten," yet to shirk the simple duty of voting with good judgment to make them wholesome, is to tacitly imply a preference for rotten politics.

Voting is a duty to the state as important as any duty to one's own family, one's own business, or any other duty. "Slacker" was rightly a term of contempt and odium during the war. It is just as contemptible in peace time—and thrice so, for those who blab-blah that "politics is rotten."—Los Angeles Times.

IN commenting on the possible postponement of the paving celebration at Brainerd until sometime next spring, the Brainerd Dispatch says that "no one cares to shiver through a long program of speeches held in the out-of-doors." It might be further stated that in these days of hustle and hurry no one cares to sit or stand, regardless of the weather, through any long program of speeches. The day of flights of oratory for long periods of time, regardless of the occasion, is past. This is clearly demonstrated daily when attempts are made to get a crowd out to hear any speech. Years ago when mail conditions were not what they are now, those from rural districts welcomed the chance to sit and listen to the orator who could clearly present his case. That time has passed. Even the resident of the remote sections gets his favorite paper or magazine, gleams the news of the day, then takes his flivver and goes joy riding instead of listening to dry talks. People going to a celebration such as is planned to commemorate the completion of the hard surfaced road want entertainment of a different nature than statistics on roadways.—Little Falls Daily Transcript.

ECONOMY IS COMMENDED

THE experiment of repairing text books instead of purchasing news ones is being tried out in the public school system of Little Falls, says the Transcript and this method of practicing economy seems a most commendable one, which may be practiced with profit in other school districts. As a work of conservation it stands very high.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Crandall and L. D. Crandall of Springville, Utah, are reassembling and rebinding books, in many cases making a complete book out of two or more that have been partially destroyed. A charge of 17 cents per book is made, whereas a new book costs $1.50. The repairers claim the rebound books will last an average of two years. The school board decided to try the experiment which, if successful, will be made an annual process. Superintendent E. C. Van Dusen said.

THE Brainerd Journal Press has had inquiry regarding the prize winners of the Pequot Fair. "This list," continues the Journal Press, "was promised by the fair association to the newspapers of the county, but to date it has not been received. The people have been promised it and they should have it, and the officials of the fair should see that it is sent out to the newspapers of the county, especially the weekly papers, through which it was promised."

THE last half of real estate tax payments should be made during October to avoid the penalty that attaches November 1. This is the last tax payment period for the year. February for personal and May for real estate are the regular tax payment times, except where real estate payments are made in two installments. Whether these payments are made in two installments or all at one time is optional.

ORTONVILLE merchants are making an unusual public display in a prominent downtown window of a number of habitual "n.s.f." checks. It is believed the publicity accorded such check writers may cause them to cease the practice of giving paper when their bank accounts carry little or no funds to meet the checks they write.

THE State Highway Department gives notice that the law against signs on the highways applies to election posters as well as to other sorts of advertising. No signs or posters of any sort can legally be displayed anywhere within the highway right-of-way.

THAT Aimee Semple McPherson "kidnaping" case is certainly great publicity for the temple and the evangelist, regardless of the merits of the suit now in progress.

Park Your Car, Shop in Comfort; Club Invitation

Visitors from this community to Chicago will find their sightseeing and shopping made easy through the courtesy of the Motorists Association of Illinois, headquarters of which are located at 2626 South Michigan avenue, in that city.

The Association, which extends a cordial invitation to tourists to call at its club rooms, maintains a department which specializes in giving information concerning points of interest, as well as instructions on how to reach the great shopping centers.

One arrangement which has been made by Hugo Meyer, the club secretary and general manager, will appeal particularly to the ladies. It concerns their shopping purchases.

"We have installed a system," said Mr. Meyer, "by means of which the ladies may do their shopping in the great downtown department stores, and have their packages sent to the club house to be called for by them when they are through with their purchasing."

"A free parking space is provided for motorists in the rear of our club house, and when the shopping tour is over, the lady may meet her family either downtown or at the club, pick up the bundles which have been sent out, pack them in the car, and the family may then, if ready, go on its way. We are sure this will appeal to both sides of the family, and it is only one of the number of ways in which we are able to serve the motoring public."

The Association club house is located on Illinois State Highway No. 42, and all parts of the city are easily accessible from the headquarters.

Tracked by the Police

Novel by William B. Courtney

"TRACKED BY THE POLICE," starring Rin-Tin-Tin, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

In France Jimmy Ford adopts a police puppy, names it Rin-Tin-Tin, and smuggles it home. Murtagh, a crooked politician, covets Jimmy's father, a police lieutenant, is mysteriously murdered. Jimmy joins the Force to avenge him. Jimmy has an ally in Rinty, now full-grown. Murtagh, fearing Jimmy, has him assigned to the deadline neighborhood of the Hudson Busters, a gang he secretly leads. Jimmy and Rinty lick the gangsters, who swear to get even. When Murtagh seeks the aid of New York Nell, his underworld sweetheart, she accuses Dan of loving Rinty.

"I don't know what kind of a job you've got for me to come in on, but you either swear to lay off that Ruth Allen, or I'm through!" Nell thrust her blazing eyes and chin close to Murtagh's face, placed one hand akimbo on her pliable hips, and snapped the fingers of her other hand under Dan's nose.

The gang watched furtively and with bated breath from the far end of the room, to which they had retreated at Dan's signal. It one of them had dared to call Dan to his teeth like this—oh, boy! But the frail—gee, she seemed able to bamboozle him and the him into knots. The gang wanted to laugh, but it did not dare. Nell wanted to shout and rage and stamp her feet—and she did dare. And Murtagh spent the better part of five minutes quieting her, five more placating her, still another five in soft-sapping her, and a last five in rewinning her confidence and trust in the truth of his protestations of love for her, and making her swallow the yarn that his interest in Ruth Allen was purely platonic and for a purpose.

"You're the fanciest looking sergeant that ever pounded a beat."

Then Dan called his leaders close—Bottleneck and Kid Twist. He imperiously ordered the rest of the gang to remain aloof; he was not going to take any chance of a leak. "We'll tell you boozes what it's all about after awhile, when we've got the thing started," said Murtagh; and the Busters rank and file had to be contented with that.

Bottleneck, in settling at the conference table, found a moment in which Murtagh's eyes were turned upon the rest of the gang, and bent a pleading look upon Nell. The sort of look that makes a food-hungry dog and a love-hungry man akin. Nell, catching the covert flash, stared back at Bottleneck ever so hard and stern and remote for a few moments; then smiled slightly. A non-committal smile. A smile that, womanlike, might mean yes as much as it might mean no. But when Dan Murtagh turned back to her, there was no mistaking the smile in her eyes for him—it meant yes. Whereupon Bottleneck's head seemed to shrink down a little into his thick neck; and behind his outward deference there glowed a subdued fire, while the look that he turned upon Murtagh, the dapper and oily, was the look of the courtier who is jealous of his king!

"Now, here's the idea," said Murtagh, when his head was together with Nell's and those of his two lieutenants. "While Ford and Rinty are sitting so pretty on their reputation, if we attempt to rough-house them we'll only have the whole damn police department down upon us. First of all, we've got to get Jimmy in dutch with the Force—quarrel him with the Captain. He's their tin god almighty, but we've got to make his name mud."

"Aw, hell," grunted Kid Twist, whose mementos of the last fight with Jimmy and Rinty made him favor killing methods. "I thought you had a good stunt. Say, those two are in so soft you'll never queer them."

"Don't be too sure of that," snapped Dan. "Remember the old wisecrack, 'The bigger they are, the harder they fall; the higher they are, the more of a smack when they hit bottom!' Now, listen—"

With that, Dan began to explain his plan. As he warmed up to it, and eager word followed eager word, his aides became enthused. "That's a cuckoo!" grinned Nell, slapping Murtagh on the shoulder. "Only remember! It depends mainly on me. And I refuse to do it unless you give me your word you'll lay off Ruth Allen—for good!" "Sure, I promise!" Ned Dan.

CHAPTER 10.

In coming to the end of his first proud round as the sergeant in charge of the deadline district, Jimmy, accompanied by the ever-faithful Rinty, met Sergeant Flaherty. Sergeant Flaherty, indeed! No less; for in the same schedule of promotions in which it had been found possible and convenient to reward Jimmy, Flaherty had been given a gold shield, too—in recognition of general merit and long years of meritorious service that, while less spectacular than those which won Jimmy his advancement, had been no less worthy. And now Sergeant Flaherty's district touched Sergeant Ford's district, even as Officer Flaherty's post had bounded Officer Ford's ill-fated post.

Flaherty had a smoothed and burrished spot rubbed on his coat sleeve, what from a constant and proudest shining of his shield. "This an ill-bullet that doesn't blow chevrons in some cop's way?" grinned Flaherty, holding his own up to match with Jimmy's. "Maybe you'll shake hands with me in a less conceited manner, now that I'm a sergeant, Rinty. How have you found things, Jimmy, boy?" "Quiet as a church," complained Jimmy.

"Fear not, and hold your impatience. It's the calm before the storm—r-m, maybe!"

"You know," went on Jimmy in a preoccupied way, while Rinty turned his back upon a cat that crossed in front of him with tail held stiffly high like a battle flag. "I'd like to lay eyes once more on that one fellow who Rinty chased into the doorway. I've been thinking of him ever since. I know that I've seen him some place before. His whole make-up is familiar. And even Rinty seemed to know him, for he went after him with the wildest growl I've ever heard. It's puzzling to me."

"All puzzles come to him who keeps his eyes open!" said Flaherty, as he moved away airily.

Flaherty's impromptu parable furnished Jimmy with food for musing during his next brisk round. But it was not the sight of any elusive man that gave him first pause; it was the approach of a woman. A pretty and pert, if hard, woman. He knew her, of course, as did nearly every other honest citizen in Chelsea who was at all in touch with local public affairs, as a woman of the world, a woman of not too unapproachable virtue, though probably no worse nor better than any of her joy-giving-and-taking sisters. Outside of that, neither he nor anyone else seemed to "have anything on" the girl.

"Hello, Nell. I haven't seen you in a long time. How's the world using you?"

"Hello, Sergeant. Congratulations. You're the fanciest looking sergeant that ever pounded the beats in this section, Jimmy! And Rinty ain't no slouch of a decorator, to have tagging after you, neither!"

Rinty, who was normally submissively courteous to women where he would be distinctly aloof with men, disdained quite pointedly to have anything of New York's Nell's caresses. He walked around behind Jimmy—away from her. Nell laughed ruefully; but there was an undercurrent of hatred in her voice, an involuntary twitching of her hands, that only Rinty heard and saw, and understood. And while he did not growl—because that would have been too ungentlemanly—he did allow his ridge to bristle distastefully.

"Don't mind Rinty," laughed Jimmy, reaching down to bury his fingers lovingly in the big fellow's ruff, "but since that affair with the Busters he doesn't trust anybody in Chelsea except Mother and me."

"—and Ruthie Allen, of course," prodded Nell, narrowing her eyes ever so slightly.

"Well, yes, Ruth too," said Jimmy, boyishly abashed for all his nervousness and gold shield when the talk turned thus to the object of his heart.

Nell pretended to laugh in the most casual manner. "Does Ruth see much of Dan Murtagh any more? Everybody in Chelsea was talking what a fool you were, Jimmy Ford, to let your girl get so much attention from another man, especially from a man like Murtagh, who is darn near old enough to be her father; but I always said you knew what you were doing. Only, if you'll take a tip from a lady who likes you, don't let Dan play around with your sweeties too much."

Pride

"Channel Fever"
Seasickness has a strange counterpart in what is now called "channel fever"—a set of distressing symptoms that sometimes strike passengers when a ship, after a rough ocean voyage, enters a landlocked harbor where there is very smooth water. The effects are something like that of real seasickness, and evidently are a result of the sudden change of environment equilibrium.

Pride is the noblest imbrise of the human heart. It is at the very foundation, the very root, of living. Pride keeps a man going. Pride keeps a man on the level. Pride keeps a man jealous of his personal appearance, of his tongue, of his conduct and of his character. Pride keeps a man's footsteps in the pathway he should go. Pride keeps his soul clean and his spirit sparkling.—Berkshire Eagle.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota

Purpose and Effect of each

Prepared by

Attorney-General of Minnesota.

Addressed to

MIKE HOLM
Secretary of State.

ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA,
OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL,
March 30, 1926.

HONORABLE MIKE HOLM,
Secretary of State,
In compliance with the provisions of section 46, General Statutes 1925, I furnish you herewith a statement of the purpose and effect of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of the state at the general election in 1926, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the legislature at the 1925 session thereof.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1

By the adoption of chapter 428, Laws 1925, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 2, article 6, of the constitution, relating to the supreme court. This section now reads as follows:

"Section 2. The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and two associate justices, but the number of associate justices may be increased to a number not exceeding four, by the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, when it shall be deemed necessary. It shall have original jurisdiction in such cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each of any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

Pursuant to the authority granted by this section, the legislature has increased the number of associate justices to four.

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"Section 2. The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and six associate justices. It shall have original jurisdiction in such cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each of any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

The purpose of the Proposed Amendment: The supreme court, as now organized under the constitution, consists of a chief justice and four associate justices, all elected by the people. In 1913, in order to take care of the increasing business of the court, the legislature passed a law providing for the appointment of two commissioners to assist the court in the performance of its duties. The act under which these commissioners are appointed provides that each shall receive the same compensation as the justice of the supreme court, and also provides that, by amendment to the constitution, the number of associate justices shall be increased to six, the office of commissioner shall be abolished.

In practice the commissioners sit as members of the court, hear arguments, read briefs, take part in discussions, write opinions, and in general do the same work as the regular justices, but they have no vote in determining the final decisions of the court. The legislature cannot give the commissioners a voice in the decisions of the court, since the organization of the court is governed by the constitution.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to provide for the election of two or more associate justices with full authority as members of the court, to take the place of the present two commissioners, who will then cease to hold office. The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to provide for the election of two more associate justices of the supreme court, without the expense of the present two commissioners, without additional expense.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

NOTE: On first proposition, if in favor of the election of two associate justices to take the place of the two appointed court commissioners, vote Yes; if opposed, vote No.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2
By the adoption of chapter 427, Laws 1925, the legislature has proposed that the constitution be amended by the adoption of a new article, to be appropriately numbered and to read as follows:

ARTICLE—
Section 1. Laws may be enacted for the purpose of encouraging and promoting reforestation and reforestation of lands in this state, whether owned by private persons or by the public, including the fixing in advance of a definite and limited annual tax on such lands for a term of years, and a yield tax at or after the end of such term upon the timber and other forest products so grown, but the taxation of mineral deposits shall not be affected by this amendment.

Section 2. Any and all provisions of the constitution of the state of Minnesota, inconsistent with the provisions of this article, are hereby repealed, so far, but only so far, as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing or permitting the doing of the things hereinbefore authorized.

THE PURPOSE OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT:

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to confer upon the legislature express authority to enact laws encouraging and promoting reforestation and reforestation of public lands and lands privately owned in this state, including the fixing in advance of a definite and limited annual tax on such lands for a term of years, and a yield tax at or after the end of such term upon the timber and other forest products grown upon such lands.

THE EFFECT OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT:

The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to authorize legislation providing for setting aside as part of the lands owned by the state for the purpose of reforestation and reforestation, and permitting privately owned lands to be so set aside by act of laws encouraging and promoting reforestation, permitting the taxation of such lands and the timber and other forest products thereof on a special basis, which need not be uniform with the basis of taxation of other lands in the state.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3

By the adoption of chapter 429, Laws 1925, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 3, article 10, of the constitution, relating to corporations. This section now reads as follows:

"Section 3. Each stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing or mechanical business, shall be liable to the amount of stock held or owned by him."

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"Section 3. The legislature shall have power from time to time to provide for, limit and otherwise regulate the liability of stockholders or members of corporations and co-operative corporations or associations, however organized."

THE PURPOSE OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT:

The constitution, as it now stands, makes each stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on a manufacturing or mechanical business, liable for the debts of the corporation, if the corporate assets are insufficient to pay the debts, up to an amount equal to the par value of his stock, in addition to what was paid or should have been paid for the stock when issued.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to prescribe and regulate by law the liability of stockholders in all corporations, including co-operative corporations or associations, however organized.

THE EFFECT OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT:

The effect of the proposed amendment if adopted, will be to abrogate the present fixed rule of stockholders' liability prescribed by the constitution and to place the matter of prescribing and regulating the liability of stockholders in all corporations created under the laws of the state entirely within the control of the legislature, subject to change from time to time as they may see fit.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

Something of the buying power of the Nation-wide institution of which this Store is a part, may be gleaned from the following article which appeared in the New York Times the other day:

"What is believed to be the largest single order ever placed for women's full-fashioned silk hosiery has just been put through by the J. C. Penney Company. It calls for 352,000 dozen (4,224,000 pairs) of the goods for deliveries ranging through all of next year. The company now operates 745 department stores in various parts of the country. Submitted by the Legislature at its General Session, 1925, to the People of Minnesota at the General 1926 Election Together with Statements of

Purpose and Effect of each

Prepared by
CLIFFORD L. HILTON
Attorney-General of Minnesota.

Addressed to
MIKE HOLM
Secretary of State.

ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA,
OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL,
March 30, 1926.
HONORABLE MIKE HOLM,
Secretary of State,
In compliance with the provisions of section 26, General Statutes 1923, I furnish you herewith a statement of the purpose and effect of proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of the state at the general election in 1926, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the legislature at the 1925 session thereof.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1
By the adoption of chapter 428, Laws 1925, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 2, article 6, of the constitution, relating to the supreme court. This section now reads as follows:

"Section 2. The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and two associate justices, but the number of associate justices may be increased to a number not exceeding four, by the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, when it shall be deemed necessary. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each of any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

Pursuant to the authority granted by this section the legislature of 1925 increased the number of associate justices to four.

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"Section 2. The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and six associate justices. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each of any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

The Purpose of the Proposed Amendment:
The supreme court, as now constituted under the constitution, consists of a chief justice and four associate justices, all elected by the people. In 1913, in order to take care of the increasing business of the court, the legislature passed a law providing for the appointment of two commissioners to assist the court in the performance of its duties. The act under which these commissioners are appointed provides that each shall receive the same compensation as a justice of the supreme court, and also provides that, if, by amendment to the constitution, the number of associate justices shall be increased to six, the office of commissioner shall be abolished.

In practice the commissioners sit as members of the court, hear arguments, read briefs, take part in discussions, write opinions, and in general do the same work as the regular justices, but they have no vote in determining the final decisions of the court. The legislature cannot give the commissioners a voice in the decisions of the court, since the organization of the court is governed by the constitution.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to provide for the election of two or more associate justices with full authority as members of the court, to take the place of the present two commissioners, who will then cease to hold office. The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to provide for the election of two more associate justices of the supreme court with full authority as members of the court, replacing the present two commissioners, without additional expense.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

NOTE: On first proposition, if in favor of the election of two associate justices to take the place of the two appointed court commissioners, vote Yes; if opposed, vote No.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2
By the adoption of chapter 427, Laws 1925, the legislature has proposed that the constitution be amended by the adoption of a new article, to be appropriately numbered and to read as follows:

Section 1. Laws may be enacted for the purpose of encouraging and promoting reforestation and reforestation of lands in this state, whether owned by private persons or the public, including the fixing in advance of a definite and limited annual tax on such lands for a term of years and a yield tax at or after the end of such term upon the timber and other forest products so grown, but the taxation of mineral deposits shall not be affected by this amendment.

Section 2. Any and all provisions of the constitution of the State of Minnesota, inconsistent with the provisions of this article, are hereby repealed, so far, but only so far, as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing the fixing in advance of a definite and limited annual tax on such lands for a term of years and a yield tax at or after the end of such term, upon the timber and other forest products grown upon such lands.

THE PURPOSE OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT:

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to confer upon the legislature express authority to enact laws encouraging and promoting reforestation and reforestation of lands in this state, whether owned by private persons or the public, including the fixing in advance of a definite and limited annual tax on such lands for a term of years, and a yield tax at or after the end of such term, upon the timber and other forest products grown upon such lands.

THE EFFECT OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT:

The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to authorize legislation providing for setting aside a part of the lands owned by the state for the purpose of reforestation and reforestation, and permitting privately owned lands to be so set aside by act of the owner thereof, and, by way of encouragement, permitting the taxation of such lands and the timber and other forest products thereon on a special basis, which need not be uniform with the basis of taxation of other lands in the state.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

SECOND—
FORESTATION AND REFORESTATION OF LANDS

Amendment to the constitution of Minnesota by adding thereto a new article, to be appropriately numbered in the order of its adoption, authorizing the enactment of laws encouraging and promoting reforestation and reforestation of lands in this state, whether owned by private persons or the public, including the fixing in advance of a definite and limited annual tax on such lands for a term of years and a yield tax at or after the end of such term upon the timber and other forest products so grown, but the taxation of mineral deposits shall not be affected by this amendment.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3

By the adoption of chapter 429, Laws 1925, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 10, article 10, of the constitution, relating to corporations. This section now reads as follows:

"Section 3. Each stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing or mechanical business, shall be liable to the amount of stock held or owned by him."

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"Section 3. The legislature shall have power from time to time to provide for, limit and otherwise regulate the liability of stockholders or members of corporations and co-operative corporations or associations, however organized."

THE PURPOSE OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT:

The constitution, as it now stands, makes each stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on a manufacturing or mechanical business, liable for the debts of the corporation if the corporate assets are insufficient to pay the debts, up to an amount equal to the par value of his stock, in addition to what was paid or should have been paid for the stock when issued.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to prescribe and regulate by law the liability of stockholders in all corporations, including co-operative corporations or associations, however organized.

THE EFFECT OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT:

The effect of the proposed amendment if adopted, will be to abrogate the present fixed rule of stockholders' liability prescribed by the constitution and to place the matter of prescribing and regulating the liability of stockholders in all corporations created under the laws of the state entirely within the control of the legislature, subject to change from time to time as they may see fit.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

You appreciate that if you were to buy 4,224,000 pairs of stockings, you could do so at a far lower price per pair than if you bought only a single pair or even a thousand dozen pairs.

Something of the buying power of the Nation-wide institution of which this Store is a part, may be gleaned from the following article which appeared in the New York Times the other day:

"What is believed to be the largest single order ever placed for women's full-fashioned silk hosiery has just been put through by the J. C. Penney Company. It calls for 352,000 dozen (4,224,000 pairs) of the goods for deliveries ranging through all of next year. The company now operates 745 department stores in various parts of the country. The order is almost twice as large as that placed by the company on similar merchandise about a year ago."

GOPHER ADVANCE BEST SHOWN IN THIRD PERIOD

MINNESOTA NOW PREPARING FOR GAME WITH WABASH

The Michigan game disclosed weaknesses, but it also revealed a fighting spirit that made the relentless Gopher advance in the third period and early in the fourth memorable.

Michigan won by 20 to 0 but the score did not do justice to the battle. Minnesota gave the Wolverines the "breaks" of the game and Minnesota misuses gave the Yost men the advantage in the first two periods, but after that it was an even game with Michigan desperately averting a Minnesota touchdown.

Michigan won by the same route that Minnesota failed. With Benny Friedman's hurling and receiving, the Michigan passing attack was invincible. But the Gophers' attempt to use the air was fruitless, although the Minnesota passes were frequent.

Minnesota came through the battle fortunately without any serious injury and the team will be intact for Wabash.

Wabash college of Crawfordsville, Ind., a school that boasts of its cave men will provide the opposition for the University of Minnesota in the Memorial stadium Saturday.

Wabash college is not a coeducational institution, and therein, its admirers say, lies its strength. Although a small school, it consistently has produced winners in all branches of sport. Whatever its weaknesses, and one of them is a dearth in real material, its football teams fight to the last ditch as the Gophers have found before.

Practice for the Wabash game starts today, but it is not expected that Dr. Clarence W. Spears will be too serious about Wabash. The game is a "breather" which allows the Gophers to get ready for Wisconsin and for Iowa and will get no more than passing attention.

Amherst, Mass., Oct. 18.—(UP)—The chaperonage of John Coolidge, son of the president and Amherst College junior, by Colonel Edward Starling, White House detective, today had become the subject of several theories.

Possible reasons for assigning the guard to the first youth of the land as suggested by newspapermen, college students and others are:

1. To prevent John from being harmed by author of "black hand" letters.

FAVORITES WIN IN MINNESOTA COLLEGE CIRCLES

MACALESTER RODE OVER HAMLIN IN 17 TO 0 VICTORY

GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS COLLEGE WON FROM CONCORDIA, 40 TO 0

By DON BUELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Oct. 18.—Favorites won in the week-end games of the Minnesota college football conference, Macalester in its first conference contest rode over Hamline for a 17 to 0 victory and Gustavus Adolphus won its second conference game from Concordia, 40 to 0. St. John's and Augsburg fought to a tie, 13 to 13. St. Olaf had no game. The Oles are preparing for their annual fight with their Northfield rivals, Carleton.

The Hamline-Macalester game was marked by the terrific plunging of both teams. Domek and Rawlings of Hamline smashed through for big gains in the first quarter, but it ended scoreless. The Hamline line, weakened by injuries, gave way in the second period. The Pipers fumbled and Farrell and Harm carried the ball to the goal for the Macs' first score. A few minutes later Rock, Mac halfback, intercepted a Hamline pass within a few yards of the goal and went over for a touchdown. The other Mac score came in the third quarter when Wilcox received a field goal from the 25-yard line.

Oestrich, Gustavus halfback, put his team in direct line for the title with sensational foot work during the two quarters in which he played. In the second period he got away for 47 and 74 yard runs to touchdowns. He added two more in the third. Swanson, his backfield mate, also broke away for a 70-yard dash to a touchdown. The Gustavus line deserves a lot of credit for the victory.

The 13 to 13 tie of St. John's and Augsburg was a thriller. Augsburg's aerial attack puzzled the Collegeville team in the first period, but no score resulted. St. John's scored first in the second period, but in the third, Augsburg's aerial attack paved the way for a touchdown. The Johnnies reached the 40-yard line and Miller did the rest. A second St. John's advance was unstoppable and the Johnnies rushed to tie the score.

Dan Buscher, St. John's halfback, who paved the way for the last touchdown with a 12-yard advance, suffered a fractured leg in the attempt and his loss will be a big blow to the Collegeville eleven. Even while the bone was being set he forgot the pain to ask: "Will I be able to play again?"

WINTER COMES TO WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Winter came to Wisconsin today as the first snow of the season was reported from the northern section of the state.

Light snow fell from Superior, as far south as Theresa yesterday and it was only because of a southeasterly wind that came at the right time that Milwaukee escaped snowfall.

The mercury dropped to around 35 degrees throughout most of the state yesterday.

SATURDAY'S DEVELOPMENTS IN FOOTBALL

SOME IN EASTERN SITUATION WERE ALMOST A CLIMAX

DARTMOUTH TASTED FIRST DEFEAT IN 2 YEARS AT HANDS OF YALE

New York, Oct. 18.—(UP)—While the eastern football season is not half over, several of Saturday's developments were almost a climax.

Dartmouth tasted her first defeat in two years at the hands of Yale.

Harvard came forth from her schooling days and showed signs of real power against William & Mary. The Army trounced Syracuse and the Navy beat crippled Princeton.

Pennsylvania took on Alonzo Stagg's Chicago eleven and sent it home whipped.

Yale's 14 to 7 defeat of the Big Green team left no doubt of the superiority of the Blue eleven. Jones' warriors must be reckoned with as among the likeliest contenders of the mythical eastern crown.

Harvard last year found William & Mary a tough little southern opponent but this year romped away to first victory of the year 27 to 7.

The Army did what was expected by beating Syracuse 27 to 21, and the Navy found the badly crippled Princeton eleven a victim 27 to 13. The score was an upset, however, for Princeton had been placed much stronger.

Pennsylvania's 27 to 9 win over Chicago has made her one of the favorites for the eastern championship.

Ohio State came east after Columbia and returned with the scalp 27 to 0.

New York university sent home to New Orleans last year's undefeated Tulane team with a 21 to 0 defeat.

Cornell beat Michigan State 24 to 14 and proved again that Dobie has a good team.

Holy Cross trimmed Rutgers 21 to 0 as expected after showing Harvard she was to be feared while Pitt won over Colgate 19 to 6.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 18.—(UP)—A message was received from Wendell, Minn., today saying that Leo Martin was killed there when an automobile in which he was riding collided with one driven by a neighbor at a point two miles east of the village. Martin's two sisters were in the automobile with him and were injured. John Miles, the neighbor and driver of the other automobile, was not hurt.

Paris Exposition Shawls Attract Much Attention

When the exposition in Paris closed and the prize shawls were offered to the public it was an American woman who had the foresight to procure them. They are indeed representative of some of the finest work done recently in France. Varied both in design and color scheme, they create the impression that each was executed with a certain type of woman in mind.

There is one especially charming in a rich Venetian blue, and to supply the necessary color which blue usually robs the wearer of, roses in mammoth sizes and in what the French call peony red are embroidered throughout. The colors from the American angle are but a rich rose that melts into the palest of pinks. Small buds and foliage in harmonizing tones produce an effective background.

Black is, of course, a safe choice when there is a question of doubt, for it sets off any of the evening shades. For the real brunette, however, black or solid white is frequently best. Enlivened with groups of brilliant red roses or the flat white embroidery having a touch of the Oriental in its design, these striking examples make selection a difficult task.

BRAINERD AND C. I. HIGH TEAMS BATTLE, 13-13

BRAINERD SCORED TWO TOUCHDOWNS IN FIRST HALF OF GAME

VISITORS CAME BACK IN SECOND, HALF WITH FORWARD PASS ATTACK

Failing to hold the determined Crosby-Ironton high school boys in the last half of the game, the Brainerd high school football squad in their first home game played here Saturday afternoon, played to a tie score of 13 to 13 with the range gridiron boys, in a thrilling battle at the municipal ball grounds.

The locals in the first half started away with successful plunges and carried the brunt of the attack to the opposing goal. The score at the end of the first half stood 13 to 9 in favor of Brainerd.

Putz made the first touchdown for the locals and Fitzharris kicked goal. Lowe made the second touchdown but failed to make the place kick.

The feature of the game was the brilliant field sprinting of Captain Putz, who one time carried the pigskin down the field for a 60 yard run.

The Crosby boys centered their attack in the last half by forward passing and their successful passing attributed the tie score.

A large crowd of enthusiastic fans were on hand to see the first game here.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Oct. 18.—Favorites won in the week-end games of the Minnesota college football conference. Macalester in its first conference contest rode over Hamline for a 17 to 0 victory and Gustavus Adolphus won its second conference game from Concordia, 40 to 0. St. John's and Augsburg fought to a tie, 13 to 13. St. Olaf had no game. The Oles are preparing for their annual fight with their Northfield rivals, Carleton.

The Hamline-Macalester game was marked by the terrific plunging of both teams. Domek and Rawlings of Hamline smashed through for big gains in the first quarter, but it ended scoreless. The Hamline line, weakened by injuries, gave way in the second period. The Pipers fumbled and Farrell and Harm carried the ball to the goal for the Macs' first score. A few minutes later Rock, Mac halfback, intercepted a Hamline pass within a few yards of the goal and went over for a touchdown. The other Mac score came in the third quarter when Wilcox received a field goal from the 25-yard line.

Oestrich, Gustavus halfback, put his team in direct line for the title with sensational foot work during the two quarters in which he played. In the second period he got away for 47 and 74 yard runs to touchdowns. He added two more in the third. Swanson, his backfield mate, also broke away for a 70-yard dash to a touchdown. The Gustavus line deserves a lot of credit for the victory.

The 13 to 13 tie of St. John's and Augsburg was a thriller. Augsburg's aerial attack puzzled the Collegeville team in the first period, but no score resulted. St. John's scored first in the second period, but in the third, Augsburg's aerial attack paved the way for a touchdown. The Johnnies reached the 40-yard line and Miller did the rest. A second St. John's advance was unstoppable and the Johnnies rushed to tie the score.

Dan Buscher, St. John's halfback, who paved the way for the last touchdown with a 12-yard advance, suffered a fractured leg in the attempt and his loss will be a big blow to the Collegeville eleven. Even while the bone was being set he forgot the pain to ask: "Will I be able to play again?"

WINTER COMES TO WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Winter came to Wisconsin today as the first snow of the season was reported from the northern section of the state.

Light snow fell from Superior, as far south as Theresa yesterday and it was only because of a southeasterly wind that came at the right time that Milwaukee escaped snowfall.

The mercury dropped to around 35 degrees throughout most of the state yesterday.

SATURDAY'S DEVELOPMENTS IN FOOTBALL

SOME IN EASTERN SITUATION WERE ALMOST A CLIMAX

DARTMOUTH TASTED FIRST DEFEAT IN 2 YEARS AT HANDS OF YALE

New York, Oct. 18.—(UP)—While the eastern football season is not half over, several of Saturday's developments were almost a climax.

Dartmouth tasted her first defeat in two years at the hands of Yale. Harvard came forth from her schooling days and showed signs of real power against William & Mary. The Army trounced Syracuse and the Navy beat crippled Princeton.

Pennsylvania took on Alonzo Stagg's Chicago eleven and sent it home whipped.

Yale's 14 to 7 defeat of the Big Green team left no doubt of the superiority of the Blue eleven. Jones' warriors must be reckoned with as among the likeliest contenders of the mythical eastern crown.

Harvard last year found William & Mary a tough little southern opponent but this year romped away to first victory of the year 27 to 7.

The Army did what was expected by beating Syracuse 27 to 21, and the Navy found the badly crippled Princeton eleven a victim 27 to 13. The score was an upset, however, for Princeton had been placed much stronger.

Pennsylvania's 27 to 0 win over Chicago has made her one of the favorites for the eastern championship.

Ohio State came east after Columbia and returned with the scalp 27 to 0.

New York university sent home to New Orleans last year's undefeated Tulane team with a 21 to 0 defeat.

Cornell beat Michigan State 24 to 14 and proved again that Dobie has a good team.

Holy Cross trimmed Rutgers 21 to 0 as expected after showing Harvard she was to be feared while Pitt won over Colgate 19 to 6.

ONE MAN KILLED AS CARS COLLIDE

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 18.—(UP)—A message was received from Wendell, Minn., today saying that Leo Martin was killed there when an automobile in which he was riding collided with one driven by a neighbor at a point two miles east of the village. Martin's two sisters were in the automobile with him and were injured. John Miles, the neighbor and driver of the other automobile, was not hurt.

Paris Exposition Shawls Attract Much Attention

When the exposition in Paris closed and the prize shawls were offered to the public it was an American woman who had the foresight to procure them. They are indeed representative of some of the finest work done recently in France. Varied both in design and color scheme, they create the impression that each was executed with a certain type of woman in mind.

There is one especially charming in a rich Venetian blue, and to supply the necessary color which blue usually robs the wearer of, roses in mammoth sizes and in what the French call peony red are embroidered throughout. The colors from the American angle are but a rich rose that melts into the palest of pinks. Small buds and foliage in harmonizing tones produce an effective background.

Black is, of course, a safe choice when there is a question of doubt, for it sets off any of the evening shades. For the real brunette, however, black or solid white is frequently best. Enlivened with groups of brilliant red roses or the flat white embroidery having a touch of the Oriental in its design, these striking examples make selection a difficult task.

Soap Kills Germs

Ordinary Kitchen soap, says Science Service, forms a lather that will kill pneumonia, diphtheria and streptococcus bacilli. The substitution of coconut oil for linseed oil in making this soap would make it destructive of typhoid organisms also, although it would be more irritating to the skin.

Early Roads

A pike road was first called a turnpike. Turnpike is another name for tollgate, and the name was applied to roads upon which tolls were collected.

First Real Ironclad Ship

The first fully-equipped ironclad ship was La Gloire (Glory), a French warship which was launched in the year 1858. She was 254 feet in length, 55 feet in breadth and 25 feet deep.

CAROL AND HELEN ARE RECONCILED

Rome, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Prince Paul of Greece today confirmed the report that the former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania and his wife, Princess Helen of Greece, had been reconciled. Prince Paul said the pair were exchanging affectionate letters, although he had no information indicating that Carol had deserted Mme. Magda Lupescu, a blonde, with whom he has been living for 10 months.

HIS ARDOR CHECKED

Two friends were talking about a young man who had just passed them in the street.

"Yes," said one, "he fell in love with a girl at a glove counter. He bought gloves every day for a week, so to discourage his attentions she became a manicurist."

"Then he had his nails manicured every day, I suppose?" remarked the other.

"Just so. But I don't think he will worry her any more."

"Oh, why?"

"She's found employment with a dentist."—Stray Stories.

CLAIMED BY HEART DISEASE

Was Member of A. O. U. W. Lodge,
Survived by Wife and Nine Children

Saturday evening at about 11:30 o'clock occurred the death of Charles Pentin, death coming very suddenly and caused by heart trouble. Mr. Pentin accompanied by his family was spending the evening at the home of a neighbor and had been in the best of health and spirits all evening when suddenly he mentioned that it was hard for him to breathe. He sat down and passed on as quickly as if he had just fallen asleep. The doctor was called but death had come instantly and he could be of no assistance.

Mr. Pentin was born in Copenhagen, Denmark, in 1886 and came to America at the age of 19, locating at Detroit Lakes, Minn. He later moved to Brainerd and its vicinity, owning a farm in Crow Wing township where he spent the last forty years of his life. He was a member of the A. O. U. W. Lodge.

He is survived by his wife, one son and eight daughters, Clyde, Irma, and Dorothy who are residing at home, Mrs. H. M. Raabe and Ruth Kennebec, S. D., Amye, a teacher and Mildred and Lauretta who are attending school in Brainerd. Another daughter, Mrs. Lillian Kern died 11 years ago.

The funeral arrangements have not as yet been completed but will be made as soon as Mrs. Raabe and Ruth arrive from North Dakota.

His many friends extend their sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

MRS. L. L. DAVIS TO SPEAK HERE

W. B. M. I. Field Worker and Thank-
Offering Secretary Speaks
Tuesday

1ST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Offering is Divided Between the Home and Foreign Missions of Church

Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Mrs. Lydia Lord Davis, W. B. M. I. Field worker and Thank-Offering secretary, will speak at the First Congregational church in behalf of the Thank-Offering of Congregational-Missionary Work. The offering is divided between home and foreign missions, viz. Schaeffer school, Cleveland, Ohio; and Kobe college, Kobe, Japan.

Speaking of the work carried on for this purpose, Mrs. Davis says, "It makes us feel in a very definite way that we are co-workers with Him who walked in Galilee so many years ago and who is with us today, whether in Japan or the homeland."

We note with interest the growth and building of the school, begun in February 1893 at Fenchow, China. A little son had come into the Davis home and the mother not wishing to leave the baby with a Chinese nurse and longing to do something for some of the ignorant, neglected little girls who lived in Fenchow, thought of the plan of inviting them into her courtyard and teaching them. With the opposition of the Chinese mothers, who said "It would be impossible for girls to learn to read and it was enough for them to know how to cook and sew as their mothers and grandmothers had done," Mrs. Davis started a school with three Chinese girls and as the school grew, lives were changed and a new way opened for them by their teacher, Mrs. Davis, who in 1900 was called upon to sacrifice her husband that the church in China might find deeper root and greater power than ever before.

Today nearly a hundred happy laughing girls pass to and from the school named after its founder, the Lydia Lord Davis school.

Mrs. Davis lives at Oberlin, Ohio.

and during the time of educating her son and up to the present she has kept up her interest and work for the uplift of her sisters across the sea. Come to the meeting tomorrow evening and hear her message. We bear in mind that the Thank-Offering counts on the church apportionment.

Anyone interested in the work of God on earth, of any denomination is welcome to this service.

Unseen Sources of Long Life

The basic sources of automobile value are not always apparent to the eye.

A motor car, like a house, may LOOK a great deal more substantial than it really is.

Because of this difficulty, more and more thousands are turning to Dodge Brothers product for insurance against disappointment.

The years have proved, and each year proves anew, that Dodge Brothers are as deeply concerned with the UNSEEN goodness of their motor car as with the seen.

The mileage it will deliver, the safety it will provide, the expense and trouble it will save the owner over a period of years, are quite as important to Dodge Brothers as the more obvious details of equipment and style.

Unseen Sources of Long Life

The basic sources of automobile value are not always apparent to the eye.

A motor car, like a house, may LOOK a great deal more substantial than it really is.

Because of this difficulty, more and more thousands are turning to Dodge Brothers product for insurance against disappointment.

The years have proved, and each year proves anew, that Dodge Brothers are as deeply concerned with the UNSEEN goodness of their motor car as with the seen.

The mileage it will deliver, the safety it will provide, the expense and trouble it will save the owner over a period of years, are quite as important to Dodge Brothers as the more obvious details of equipment and style.

RESUME HEARING OF EVANGELIST AT LOS ANGELES

MISS BERNICE MORRIS, BEAUTIFUL YOUNG SECRETARY, TAKES STAND

CHARGES EVANGELIST CONSPIRED WITH HER LATE EMPLOYER

By LINCOLN QUARBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—Miss Bernice Morris, beautiful young secretary of the late R. A. McKinley, blind attorney, was recalled to the witness stand today by the state when the hearing of Aimee Semple McPherson on charges of criminal conspiracy was resumed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—Aimee Semple McPherson charged today that she had been poisoned by one of her enemies.

The magnetic evangelist was suffering from a leg abscess when she arrived in court to begin the fourth week of her hearing on charges of perjury and conspiracy to obstruct justice.

STOCKS FAIRLY BUOYANT
New York, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Considering the extreme pessimism prevailing in professional quarters, the fall in the price of silver to a new low since 1921, and the continued heaviness of cotton, stocks gave a good account of themselves today.

Rallying tendencies which developed in the industrial leaders, particularly General Motors and Steel, were fairly well sustained.

General Motors recovery was noteworthy in view of the heavy selling in some of the other automobile shares.

Pressure converged mostly on Studebaker due to reports that company planned a substantial curtailment of its output.

The market closed lower.

HIGHJACKERS IN ATTEMPT TO RAID APARTMENT HOUSE

Chicago, Oct. 18.—(UP)—One man was killed and two others were wounded here today, when highjackers attempted to raid an apartment in which beer is sold. The dead man, one of the raiders, is believed to be a "George Hughes" of Cleveland, O. A letter found in his pocket bore the above name, and had been received in Cleveland.

The street address there had been scratched out.

The highjackers, according to police reports, entered the apartment and ordered proprietor and patrons to put up their hands.

"Don't be silly," Edward Crane, alleged proprietor of the place, answered. Guns were produced and both invaders and invaded started firing.

Two patrons were wounded and "Hughes," one of the highjackers, was found dead when the lights were turned on.

Just Stood Still

Lincoln's birthday had been celebrated with the usual patriotic exercises in the public schools. Kathleen's mother was ill and had been unable to go to hear her daughter's recitation. When the children returned from school her mother asked her for an account of the program, and this is the way Kathleen told it:

"Well, we just sang some songs, and a lot of us recited poems. Then at the end we all stood up and sang 'America,' and one boy carried in the flag and all of the boys saluted." At this point her mother interrupted the story with, "Didn't the little girls salute, too?" "Oh, no. Mother, you don't understand. The little girls just stood still in solution."—Indianapolis News.

Substitute for Wheat

Adlay, a grain grown in the tropics, is said to be a good substitute for wheat or corn if either should fail. Adlay is akin to Job's tears; the hard seeds often used for beads.

Piles Go Quick

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile Sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

Prices

Wilson Mizner, who has gone in heavily for Florida development, was rallied at a Palm Beach reception about his Pirate cabaret in Lake Boca Raton.

"The Pirate cabaret!" said a pretty Chicago girl. "What a dreadful name! What prices it suggests!"

"Palm Beach," said Mr. Mizner, "is no place to talk about prices. I said to a young fellow yesterday:

"Horribly hot, isn't it?"
"Oh, unbearably, insufferably," said he. "Why, my old man gave me fifty plunks this morning, and it's already melted down to half a dollar!"

Wedding Music on Radio

Joseph Knecht, leader of a New York broadcasting orchestra, received a telegram which read, "Please play wedding march tonight at six, starting radio program." It was signed "A Bride-to-be." Knecht obliged by playing Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" at six o'clock that evening. Nothing further was heard until another telegram came, which read: "Many thanks for wedding march and the musical start you gave us in life. May you have many successful years. The Bride."

Scrambled Religion

An eminent preacher who has found it impossible to agree with the doctrines of the church with which he originally affiliated announces that he will now become a Jew, a Mohammedan and a member of the Orthodox church. Keeping track of his religious obligations is going to occupy all his time from now on.—New York Sun.

For Example

"Youth has no initiative," says a writer. "I have just heard of a young man who is occupying the long winter evenings by taking a correspondence course to fit him for a career as head of a correspondence college."

"Gone home, I guess."
"Where is that?"

Has Several Broods

There is no native bird which attempts to equal the mourning dove in domestic accomplishments, says Nature Magazine. Its breeding season extends from early May until late September, and, if fate is lenient with the frail establishment of the bird, three or four broods may be raised to maturity with scarcely a pause between each family.

Dark Ages Bridges

It is a curious light upon the interpretation of our common term "the Dark ages" that those "Dark ages" should have given to, and nearly all the bridges she had till the time of the Georges, for bridge building perished with the destruction of the monasteries, and even the principles had to be re-invented by Eighteenth century engineers.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. —Adv.

STOCKS FAIRLY BUOYANT
New York, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Considering the extreme pessimism prevailing in professional quarters, the fall in the price of silver to a new low since 1921, and the continued heaviness of cotton, stocks gave a good account of themselves today.

Rallying tendencies which developed in the industrial leaders, particularly General Motors and Steel, were fairly well sustained.

General Motors recovery was noteworthy in view of the heavy selling in some of the other automobile shares. Pressure converged mostly on Studebaker due to reports that company planned a substantial curtailment of its output.

The market closed lower.

HIGHJACKERS IN ATTEMPT TO RAID APARTMENT HOUSE

Chicago, Oct. 12.—(UP)—One man was killed and two others were wounded here today, when highjackers attempted to raid an apartment in which beer is sold. The dead man, one of the raiders, is believed to be a "George Hughes" of Cleveland, O. A letter found in his pocket bore the above name, and had been received in Cleveland.

The street address there had been scratched out.

The highjackers, according to police reports, entered the apartment and ordered proprietor and patrons to put up their hands.

"Don't be silly," Edward Crane, alleged proprietor of the place, answered. Guns were produced and both invaders and invaded started firing.

Two patrons were wounded and "Hughes," one of the highjackers, was found dead when the lights were turned on.

Just Stood Still

Lincoln's birthday had been celebrated with the usual patriotic exercises in the public schools. Kathleen's mother was ill and had been unable to go to hear her daughter's recitation. When the children returned from school her mother asked her for an account of the program, and this is the way Kathleen told it:

"Well, we just sang some songs, and a lot of us recited poems. Then at the end we all stood up and sang 'America,' and one boy carried in the flag and all of the boys saluted." At this point her mother interrupted the story with, "Didn't the little girls salute, too?" "Oh, no. Mother, you don't understand. The little girls just stood still in solution."—Indianapolis News.

Prices

Wilson Mizner, who has gone in heavily for Florida development, was rallied at a Palm Beach reception about his Pirate cabaret in Lake Boca Raton.

"The Pirate cabaret!" said a pretty Chicago girl. "What a dreadful name! What prices it suggests!"

"Palm Beach," said Mr. Mizner, "is no place to talk about prices. I said to a young fellow yesterday:

"Horribly hot, isn't it?" "Oh, unbearably, insufferably," said he. "Why, my old man gave me fifty plunks this morning, and it's already melted down to half a dollar."

Wedding Music on Radio

Joseph Knecht, leader of a New York broadcasting orchestra, received a telegram which read, "Please play wedding march tonight at six, starting radio program." It was signed "A Bride-to-be." Knecht obliged by playing Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" at six o'clock that evening. Nothing further was heard until another telegram came, which read: "Many thanks for wedding march and the musical start you gave us in life. May you have many successful years. The Bride."

Has Several Broods

There is no native bird which attempts to equal the mourning dove in domestic accomplishments, says Nature Magazine. Its breeding season extends from early May until late September, and, if fate is lenient with the frail establishment of the bird, three or four broods may be raised to maturity with scarcely a pause between each family.

Dark Ages Bridges

It is a curious light upon the interpretation of our common term "the Dark Ages" that those "Dark Ages" should have given En, and nearly all the bridges she had till the time of the Georges, for bridge building perished with the destruction of the monasteries, and even the principles had to be re-invented by Eighteenth century engineers.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water — you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. —Adv.
